Foreword

You, the green, but "sophisticated," sophomore; you the expectant, hardworking junior; you the self-assured, confident senior--to everyone at Cleveland High School--
THIS IS YOUR YEAR.

It is a year filled with moments of laughter, excitement, friendship, and study. Although many of these moments may seem insignificant, these are the things that make a year memorable. Whether cheering your team to victory, cramming for the quiz you just heard about, or having the time of your life at the dance, you will come to treasure these moments, for they make up Your Year.

In this volume we have attempted to preserve these memories that you may never forget this--Your Year.

IN TRIBUTE

The image of man carved in finely textured marble perpetuates his likeness to generations yet unborn. The gifted artist with his inspirational talent captures the strength of will, the determination, and something of the character of man with his brush of rich colors, hues, highlights and shadows. The legends of man are etched in polished granite, and the plaques of bronze forever tell his story.

With the truly great professional, the teacher, this is not always so. His greatest legacy, his influence, is quite immeasurable and defies complete depiction.

The staff of the 1965 ARROW takes great pride in dedicating this book to just such a man . . . Dr. George Howard Givens, Division Superintendent of the Russell County Schools.

We consider Dr. Givens to be a man of reason, receptive to differing opinion. A man of calculated good judgment whose vision exceeds the expected, and whose patience has been rewarded with forty years of progress. First and foremost, a gentleman, skilled in the art of human relations, and respected for his open-mindedness. A man of deep conviction, with an understanding of his fellow man and a reverence for his God.

This book is dedicated to the man, to his career, and to an abundance of good works.

AN AWARENESS

The teacher is the key to the ordered process of learning. This key opens the door to an abundance of possibilities and stimulates the reason far beyond the expected. Once the door is ajar the sequence to success gradually unfolds.

Self-analysis, planned and evaluated, opens the mind to study, broadens the areas of interest, patterns the processes of thinking, and stimulates the desire for learning learning for living. The routine of living, when carried out solely in terms of tomorrow's objectives, loses some of its value and much of its enjoyment.

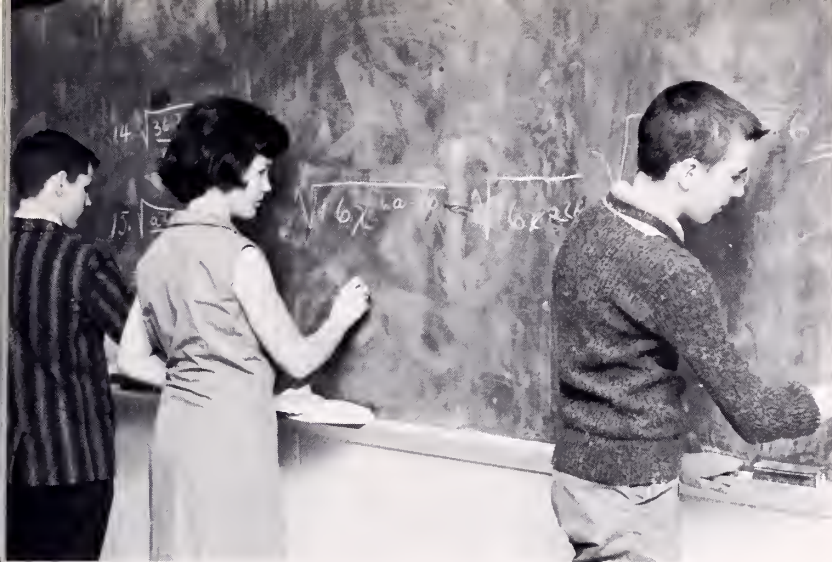

Therefore, individual study beyond the classroom adds importance to today. That which is ultimately sought becomes the culmination of much that is worthwhile and enjoyable at the moment. To have an inner feeling of self-assurance and self-achievement is necessary to individual growth. "Study to show thyself approved" can be one of life's more rewarding experiences.

However, to grow as an individual an awareness of being must be understood. In a free society the purposes of true living are not established or directed. Be it a pity that all men of kindred profession were exactly alike or even closely so. Set your mind to a task, unbounded if you will, and strive to achieve it, but above all have an awareness.

Twelve years ago forty students entered Cleveland Elementary School. We were the original first grade to enroll in the new building. Only ten of these first graders remain in our senior class. Over the years we have lost many old friends who were replaced by new ones. These are not the only changes.

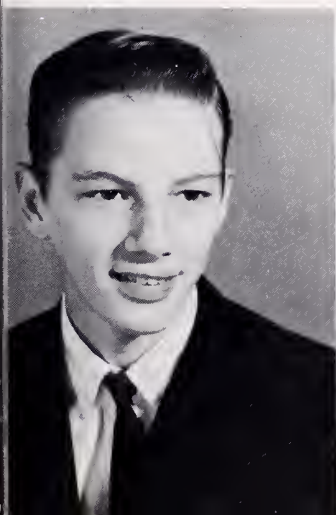

Looking back over the past four years in high school, we can recall many changes: our school, our teachers, our activities, our interests---all have changed. But we have progressed steadily toward our goal.

Our Senior Year has been an enjoyable year of fulfillment, climaxed by graduation. It has been a profitable year during which we have studied Chaucer's England, Newton's laws of motion, the national elections, the Pythagorean theorem, and brief forms in Shorthand. It has been a busy year---selling candy, attending basketball games, working on the yearbook, serving countless meals, taking part in forensics, practicing the senior play, and getting ready for graduation.

To our parents and teachers we are most grateful for helping us to achieve this goal. We hope we may be worthy of their confidence by continuing to progress in our chosen fields because "it is not finished; it is just begun."

In keeping with the theme of our Class Night program, senior dancers sprinkle the cafeteria with sand.

A light note in our program was a skit, "Hot Foot and Timepiece", given by Kenneth Hart and Denny Powers, which related our school experiences from A to Z.

Royce Rasnake, senior class president, offers the seniors a challenge in his speech, "The Shoes We Choose".

Of Footprints

Brenda Barton presents the superlatives in "Startime".
Parents and friends enjoy refreshments with the seniors after the program.

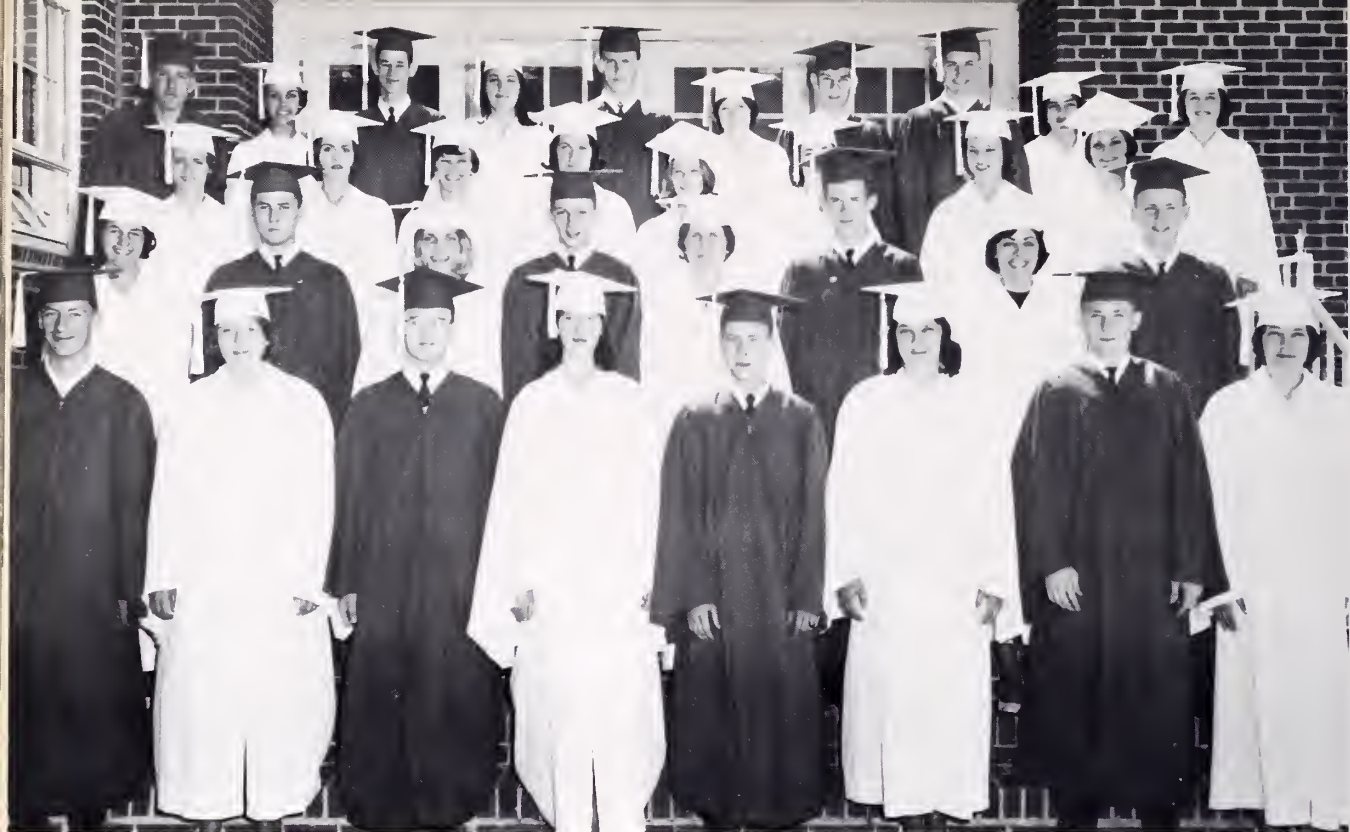

Wilma M. Dotson, giftorian, begins the presentation of gifts to each senior.

And Time

Seniors practiced hours and hours; then worked more hours to present the Senior play "Tune in on Terror". Patsy Stevens was given an award for contributing most to the Senior Play.

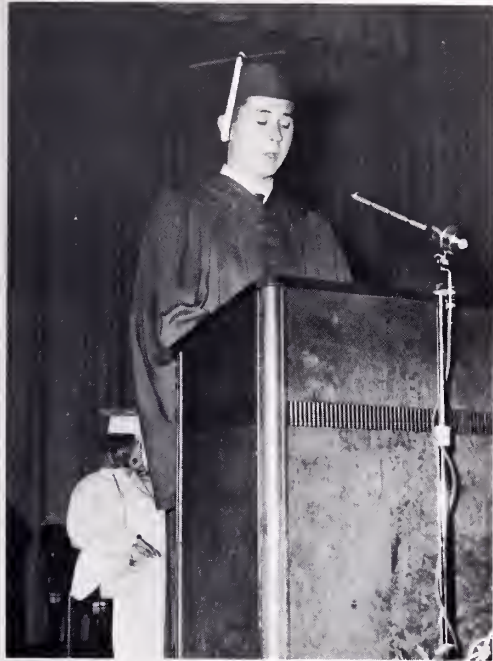

Our Graduation... Class of 1965

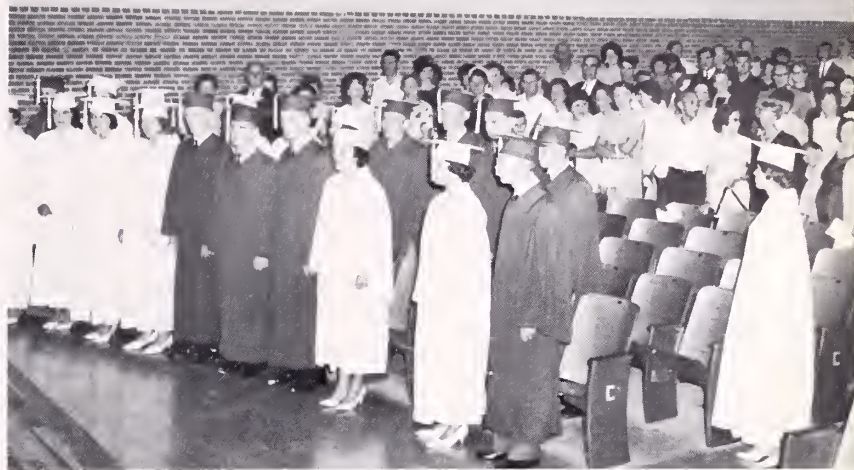

The Rev. W. W. Judy of Bluefield College presented our Commencement Sermon Sunday, May 30, 1965. He was assisted in the program by Rev. Richard N. Hale and Mrs. Truth Fraley.

Presiding at the graduation exercises was Victor Taylor, president of the S. C. A.

The Commencement Address was given by the Rev. Wayne Cummings, Pastor of the Lebanon Memorial Methodist Church, Lebanon, Virginia.

Seniors march down the aisle for the last time on Graduation night May 31, 1965.

Dr. G. H. Givens, Supt. of Russell County Schools presented the diplomas.

The Farewell to the Seniors was given by Mrs. Betty C. Yates.

One of the high points of the spring was the Junior-Senior Prom. The Juniors worked drawing silhouettes and decorating with candles and flowers to carry out the theme "Silhouettes".

Junior-Senior Prom

Dean Wallace, Junior Class President, presented gifts to the Senior royalty, Royce Rasnake and Sharon Parrott.
